I. Visual Identity & Design Philosophy

The overarching goal is a "Johnny Ive meets James Bond" aesthetic—sophisticated, high-impact, and meticulously organized. Polished and Purposeful.

Our style draws inspiration from the structured outlines of IBM and the minimalist beauty of Jony Ive's work.

- Primary Visual Style: High-contrast, clean, and simple. Think of the "Augusta Masters scoreboard" or a vintage Porsche advertisement.
- White Space: Prioritize significant white space to allow for a high-impact, uncluttered layout.
- Palette: white, cream or off-white backgrounds with simple black lettering for design work. White backgrounds when creating documents and files.
- Typography: Montserrat is the mandatory font style for all brand materials, including resumes, letterheads, and internal documents.
- Bold should be used for headers, documents should be clean and simple. Data should be organized in tables or graphs whenever possible.
- Information should be broken up with page breaks if sections are easily divisible.
- Documents/information should have a cover page whenever necessary. Think of an executive summary or table of contents for larger documents.

II. Operational Standards for Documentation

To maintain our minimalist aesthetic, all candidate and business development documents must adhere to strict scannability rules:

- The "White Space is King" Rule: Key sections such as "Key Skillset" and "Headhunter's Note" must be limited to 3–4 lines. Documents should ideally remain on a single, scannable page.
- The Scannability Rule: Information must be synthesized. Any section with more than 3 bullet points is too long. Aim for exactly 3 high-impact bullets per section.
- The "Result-First" Mandate: Avoid clerical descriptions. Use a consultative tone that emphasizes strategic impact and outcomes.
 - Example: Use "Directed field logistics for a 40-story vertical build" rather than "Responsible for scheduling."

III. Core Values (The Eden Standard)

These guiding principles inform both our internal culture and our external representation:

- Stewardship: Treating every client requisition as a personal responsibility.
 - Curiosity: Digging deeper than a job description to understand the "soul" of a role.
 - Improvement: Viewing headhunting as a craft that must be sharpened daily.
 - Dedication: Adhering to the "slow is smooth, smooth is fast" philosophy.

Anesthetic:

Think Utilitarian.

When designing for Web, think Dark, industrial, clean.

Almost a secretive vibe luxury without being flashy or showing. Mattes, muted...

Think: murdered out Lexus GX 550 off-road type of vibe.

Subtle, but elevated. Make people look twice without being flashy.
